Dear Customer!

This year, Norwegian stamps will take us almost all the way to the South Pole.

The Wild Animals stamp series ended in 2015. It is now time to introduce a new series of definitive stamps in sheets. Over the next few years, the series will depict Norway's polar areas in both the Arctic and the Antarctic. The first two stamps will depict animal life on Bouvet Island. This is the first time Bouvet Island has been depicted on Norwegian stamps. The stamps will be issued in a new type of self-adhesive sheets, which will make them easier for customers to use. Magnus Rakeng has designed the stamps.

Three new bird stamps had the honour of opening the 2018 stamp year. Artist Viggo Ree designed the motifs. The great grey owl, the snowy owl and the rough-legged hawk are pictured on the beautiful stamps. The non-denominational stamp in the series is for the first time only marked with "Innland". This is because the consignment categories A and B have now been eliminated.

Kind regards,

Halvor Fasting
