Norway Post
Stamps

A black and white photograph of a royal couple on their wedding day. The bride is on the left, wearing a long, white, high-collared gown with long sleeves and a long, flowing veil. She is holding a large bouquet of flowers. The groom is on the right, wearing a dark military-style uniform with a sash and several medals on his chest. He is holding a cane. They are standing in a room with a patterned carpet and a door in the background.

Dear Customer!

Sverre Morken is the artist behind the minaturesheet for the Royal Couple's golden wedding anniversary.

This marks the 195th stamp he has designed for Norway Post. He has decided to retire, a decision which at the age of 73 he has fully earned. And so ends an era in Norwegian stamp history. Sverre engraved his first stamp in 1973, and his beautiful engravings on stamps have received recognition in both Norway and abroad. Norway Post would like to thank Sverre for 45 fantastic years!

The stamp for the Royal Couple's golden wedding anniversary was issued on 29 August and depicts the Crown Prince Couple leaving Oslo Cathedral after their wedding ceremony on 29 August 1968. The miniature sheet also shows details from the Crown Princess's bridal gown and the monogram for this year's golden anniversary.

Postal Codes 50 Years is an important anniversary for Norway Post. Starting in 1968 it became much easier to sort letters and parcels, and the Director General of Norway post at that time, Ragnvald Rustung Bru, declared the introduction of postal codes to be the most important milestone in Postverket's history in a long time. The postal code continues to be one of Norway Post's most important tools. Jørn O. Jøntvedt is the designer behind the stamp, which was issued on 6 October, Stamp Day.

Kind regards,

Halvor Fasting

Arctic Anniversary

The sealer "Grönland" was built in Skånevik in Hordaland in 1867. The ship was sold the following year to German Arctic explorer Carl Koldewey, who used her for the first German Arctic expedition to Svalbard in 1868.

Today, "Grönland" is owned by the German Maritime Museum. She is one of the oldest sailing ships in Germany still in service, and she is considered one of the best restored sailing ships in Europe.
